

Rotary Grants for Higher Education Teachers

Purpose: The Grants for Higher Education Teachers program blends two of Rotary's most important emphases: education and volunteer service. The primary purpose is to further international understanding and friendship while strengthening higher education in low-income countries. Low-income countries are defined in terms of per capita GNP.

Who: At the wishes of District 5340, these grants are to be awarded to higher education faculty to teach in the fields of: (1.) Food Propagation, (2.) AIDS Prevention, (3.) Computer Education, and/or (4.) Family Health.

Because teachers are providing a service, Rotarians as well as non-Rotarians are eligible. Applicants must hold (or, if retired, must have held) a full-time college- or university-level position for three or more years. Further details regarding this program may be found in the "Rotary Grants for University Teachers" and "Program Guide for Rotarians: Ambassadorial Scholarships and Grants for University Teachers".

Awards: Four grants have been budgeted for 3-5 months periods at $12,500 each. Two are slated for Scripps Institute of Oceanography. The other two teachers can be from any community college or university in the 5340 district.

Where: Teachers will need to travel to a developing country to teach one of the four fields listed above. It is suggested that the teachers travel to District 9200 in Africa or District 4400 in Ecuador.

Time Period for Travel: July 1, 2004 through June 30, 2005

Application Deadline: November 10, 2003
